SHARED Children 'being brave' on last day of school

Children are enjoying their last day at school for the foreseeable future and if they close until September, some may not return to the same one.

At St Nicholas CE First School in Codsall, South Staffordshire, pupils were told they did not need to wear uniform and were encouraged to dress in bright colours.

Head teacher Jodie Parker said: "Our children are being brave and positive about the thought of remote learning and the school is looking at how it can maintain good communication and contact with the community during this time apart."

Miss Parker said staff felt "naturally sad" that today may be the last day for some but that they would be invited to a school reunion in September.
